Press Release

Orgacure Web shop

Buy Orgacure direct and save sending cost.

Rotterdam, Netherlands, February 25, 2025: Orgacure B.V., an agriculture and food science technology company with focus on food safety solutions for farmers, processors and supermarkets, opens its new web shop to sell Orgacure products to the industrial and professional user and to consumer. The entire Orgacure product range can be purchased online now with a few mouse clicks. The move to establish its own web shop instead of (continue) working with distributors and online seller portals such as Amazon, comes from the performance to sales cost and service quality gap between the Orgacure distribution channels. Subsequently Orgacure didn't renewed non-performing sales relationships and focuses on providing in-house tools to serve its customer with service excellence, speed and competitive prices.

Customer can now order Orgacure at the time of their convenience, independent of time-zones and limitations from office hours. "Orders are picked up 24/7 and leaving, while stock lasts, our warehouse in Germany shortly after placing.", says Roger Bierwas, CEO of Orgacure B.V. However large orders still require some pre-order time of a few weeks as it is for Orgacure the most economic to collect those product orders to streamline production. "With rising demand for higher volumes of Orgacure we will ultimately deliver right from the warehouse, but we are not there yet.", adds Roger. In connection with the web shop, Orgacure provides the price and processing tool AppliAssist™ for customer to calculate how much Orgacure for what kind of fruits and vegetables in which type of application they need fitting individual "job sizes".

To round up the online shopping experience, Orgacure offers free delivery on single unit orders. "The web shop saves safes us sales cost we would otherwise spend on agents, that's why we forward parts of these savings to our customer in form of free product delivery.", says Roger. To serve both professionals and consumers, various payment options are to choose from during the ordering process - bank transfer, PayPal and credit card are just a few to name. "The order to check out process takes just a few minutes, while existing customer can order even quicker their products from Orgacure.", says Roger. "In a time where everybody is so busy, and some operations
